GENERAL BATTLE HAS BEEN IN PROGRESS IN FRANCE SINCE MONDAY

Paris Report Stated Armies on Entire Northern and Eastern Fronts Are Engaged.

GERMANS ARE ON DEFENSIVE

Battle Line, as Revealed by Official Statement is at Least 100 Miles Long.

GERMAN POSITION GOOD

Even Admitted by French War Office
to be Strongest Held Since They Have Been in France.

ITALY MAY AID ALLIES.

(By United Press.)

London, Sept. 16.—There is a growing belief in diplomatic circles that Italy has at last decided definitely to aid the allies against her former treaty associates.

RUSH TROOPS TO BELGIUM.

(By United Press.)

Antwerp, Sept. 16.—The Germans are rushing fresh troops into Belgium from Aix La Chapelle but whether these are intended to strengthen the forces now here or are to be sent to the south to fill the gaps in the Germans right wing is not yet known.

(By United Press.)

Paris, Sept. 16.—The official announcement at three o'clock stated that a general battle has been in progress since Monday along the entire northern and eastern front with the Germans everywhere compelled to fight on the defensive. At no point, it is stated, have they been able to assume the offensive.

The report continues:

"The German rear guard, reinforced by the main body, has been fighting on the defense throughout Monday and Tuesday along the entire line to the north of Rheims and then through Ville, Sur and Toubé."

The new battle line, as revealed by the official statement, is nearly 100 miles long. Starting at Noyon, it runs 20 miles southeast to Soissons and then runs 20 miles northeast to Laon and then directly northeast to Ville on the Tourbe, a distance of about 55 miles. The center of this line is exactly north of Rheims, about half way between that city and Bethel where the British were badly beaten in the original invasion of France.

It is admitted by the military experts that the new positions taken by the Germans are the strongest they have yet held in France. The conditions are ideal from the defensive point of view, it is stated, but confidence is expressed that the admitted numerical superiority of the French and British forces will enable them to force the Germans back.

The German front has narrowed and this will operate to the benefit of the allies. News from the allied left is anxiously awaited here. There the British and French who have been heavily reinforced are attempting operations that may result in still further crumpling up of the German right.

JAP AVIATORS ARE BUSY

Drops Bombs on German Headquarters and Damage Wireless.

(By United Press.)

Tokio, Sept. 16.—Japanese aviators have succeeded in dropping bombs on the German headquarters at Kiso Chan and doing much damage. They have also put the wireless station out of business and then returned to the fleet undamaged.

It is officially stated today that the field operations are proceeding as planned.

GERMANS MAKE COUNTER ATTACKS

London War office Says They Have

Along Aisne River in France.

GERMAN LOSSES ARE HEAVY

(By United Press.)

London, Sept. 16.—In an official statement issued at seven o'clock tonight the war office says:

"The general position along the Aisne river continues very favorable.
The Germans have delivered several counter attacks especially against the first army corps. These have been repulsed and the Germans in turn have been forced to give way slightly."

"The German losses are very heavy and this morning we captured 200 prisoners."

NAVAL BATTLE IN BALTIC

Admitted by Officials But Details Are Strangely Lacking.

(By United Press.)

London, Sept. 16.—Although it is accepted in official circles that naval battle has been fought in the Baltic, not a particle of information concerning the outcome is obtainable here. Dispatches from Petrograd vaguely refer to the presence of the Germans in the gulf of Finland and to their bombardment of "unprotected positions" but they are so badly mutilated by the censor that their information does not enlighten.

FORCED SOUTH TO VISTULA RIVER

Berlin Advises Say Remainder of Russian Army of Million Men
is Defeated in Prussia

ATROCITIES ARE REPORTED

Official Reports of Battle of Marne
Still Make German Prospects
Look Favorable.

(By United Press.)

Berlin, Sept. 16.—(By Wireless)
According to the admissions of Russian prisoners who have been taken in east Prussia, the remainder of the Russian army of one million men has been forced southward to the Vistula river positions.

The British naval commission at Constantinople resigned today from service.

Official reports state the French troops in the battle of August 25 attacked and destroyed a German field hospital, killing the physicians and nurses and wounded German soldiers.

Official reports of the battle of the Marne still say the German prospects are favorable.

Official advices received from Vienna say that the Servian army of invasion which has crossed the Save river was attacked by a strong Austrian force and overwhelmingly defeated. The Vienna advices say that the Servians are being driven back into Serbia and that they have lost many men and guns.

The official statement issued today at the war office carries the fact that the Germans have now succeeded in checking the entire offensive movement of the allies in France. It is stated that the German army is now entrenched in new strong positions and that at a number of points the Germans have succeeded in driving the French-British lines back on their supports. So far as the entire situation in France is concerned, the reports of the general staff all agree that the new plan of campaign is working out in a very satisfactory manner.

It is also made evident that the German forces which are operating in East Prussia, continue to drive
the Russians back and it is believed that an invasion in force of Russian Poland may be about to commence.
General Vor-Hindenburg is striking at the Russian communications on the east bank of the Vistula and if his present movement is successful, the Russians will be compelled to withdraw large forces from Galicia thus relieving the pressure on the Austrian army.

CAMPAIGN BEING CLOSED

Russian Movement Against Austrians Drawing to Successful End.

(By United Press.)

Petrograd, Sept. 16.—With Russian troops closing in on the strong Austrian fortress of Przemysl and the fortified positions along the San to Jaroslaw and with Grodek and muciska already occupied by the czar's troops, it was announced at army headquarters today that the main objective of the Russian-Austrian campaign is rapidly coming to a successful conclusion.

NO DOUBT ABOUT FIRE CAUSE NOW

Evidence of Incendiarism Found in Second Attempt to Burn Down
Allen Daniels' Home.

COAL OIL HAD BEEN APPLIED

Fire Found Early This Morning in Practically Every Room in the House.

Because of a second blaze at the home of Allen Daniels in East Seventh street, the fire department and police are more strongly convinced than ever that the fire was the work of an incendiary. The second blaze was discovered this morning about twelve-thirty o'clock and this time
the work of destruction was almost complete.

Following the fire of Monday night, which did considerable damage to the Daniels home, rumors of incendiarism were heard, and if the first fire was not caused in this manner, it is almost certain that the second blaze, following closely upon the first, was.

When the fire department arrived
this morning the fire was not confined to one particular place but the entire house was in flames and the work of destruction was made more complete. Fire was found in practically every room in the house both upstairs and down, and the kitchen, which was not damaged by the first blaze, was almost destroyed by the second. The odor of coal oil was very evident and from all indications the rooms had been saturated with it.

The fire burned with a flash, indicating that oil had been used. The second fire damaged the first floor of the house, which was not touched by fire the night before. The baseboard of the woodwork in the down stairs
rooms was burned in such a manner
as to show that oil or some substance had first been applied. The loss last night is estimated to be as great as the night before, making the total for the two fires about $1,000.

The fire was discovered by several people at about the same time. A telephone call was sent to the fire department and while they were getting ready to respond the alarm was sounded. Earl Mabra, who lives directly back of the Daniels home, turned in the alarm. He stated that when he first saw the blaze the house was a mass of flames. The fire department did good work but it was evident that someone tried to finish the residence. There was no one at the house last night and it would have been comparatively easy for someone to get in without being observed.

Mr. Daniels has no idea as to who would set the house on fire, but it will be investigated. The fire department may send for an assistant from the state fire marshal's office in an effort to find the guilty party, if the fire really was the work of an incendiary. The house goods, following the first fire, were not taken back into the house, but were stored in a shed in the rear.

MASONIC TEMPLE IS COMPLETED

New Building Which Represents Expenditure of $35,000 is Model of its Kind

COMMITTEE IS COMPLIMENTED

Entire Second Floor Will be Devoted to Lodge—Dedication Date
Not Set Yet

The work on the Masonic Temple
was finished today and the building is now complete, with the exception of the installation of the heating fixtures, and this part of the work will be completed as soon as possible, according to the heating contractor.

This building, which has been under course of construction but little more than five months, was planned by William G. McGuire, a former Rushville boy, but now of Indianapolis, where he has a position with Architect Herbert Foltz. Mr. Mc-Guire has more than made good in his chosen profession and deserves to be commended for the quality of work he has given Rushville.

The building carries out the old Moorish lines and presents a beautiful frontage of 82 feet with a depth of about 100 feet, two stories and basement, representing an expenditure of approximately $35,000.00.
The first floor is given over to business purposes, the postoffice occupying one half of the first floor. The spacious quarters of the postoffice,
together with the fine new all steel furniture, which was supplied by the Keyless Lock company of Indianapolis, makes this one of the most up-to-date and convenient offices in the state, of those not having federal buildings. A representative of the Keyless Lock company was here a few days ago and had made a number of photographs showing the arrangement of the interior, and stated that they would use this office
as a model.

The entire second floor will be devoted to the Masonic Lodge. The various rooms are large and commodious, giving them ample room for their work. The two large front rooms will be used as an armory and social room. The lodge room, which is finished throughout in white enamel, presents a very beautiful appearance, as does the banquet room and the commandery.

The building is constructed of face
and common brick, terra cotta, Bedford stone, concrete foundation,
hollow tile partitions on first floor,
with reinforced concrete boiler room
and is as nearly fire proof as is possible without actual fireproof construction.

The general public and especially the members of this lodge should feel under obligations to the members of the building committee, for their untiring efforts to secure for the Phoenix Masonic Temple association
a building that would be first class in every particular. Considering the fact that they were handicapped by a lack of funds, they have done remarkably well, and have a building that needs no apologies. This committee is composed of Dr. F. G.
Hackleman, A. L. Stewart, and E. H.
Payne. They should be congratulated both for their wisdom in the selection of an architect, who would plan for them a building both beautiful in design and the last word in up-to-date building, and also a man
to construct the building for them.
This they found in Bert Anderson of Lynn, Indiana. While Mr. Anderson has never built a job in Rushville, yet
his reputation for first class work

TWO SPECIALS WILL BE NEEDED

Republicans Going to Indianapolis
Thursday Night are Urged to Get Tickets at Once

TO FILL UP THE SECOND CAR

More Than Enough Round Trip
Fares are Sold to Guarantee
One Car—Badges Printed

Because of the demand for tickets on the special which will be run over the Indianapolis & Cincinnati traction line Thursday evening to Indianapolis for the opening of the Republican campaign, another car will have to be added and indications now are that two car loads of Rush
county Republicans will go.

But there is not enough yet to fill the second car and those who wish to be assured of a seat in the second car should see about their tickets by tomorrow morning at ten o'clock.
That will be the last chance to get a ticket. They may be procured of either A. L. Riggs, county chairman, or at Hargrove & Mullin's drug store.
The price is $1.20 the round trip,
which is a cut rate. The going car will leave here at five-thirty o'clock Thursday evening and the returning car will leave Indianapolis at eleven o'clock.

It was first attempted to sell only enough tickets to guarantee one special. Only fifty round trip fares are necessary to get the first car and it was not long until that number was taken. Of course, more than fifty could be piled on one car, but the committee has laid down the iron clad rule that there shall be a seat for everyone. To make that possible it was necessary to arrange for a second car. More will be needed to fill that car. Republicans who are anxious to get a seat should procure a ticket at once, it is advocated by the committee, as it is believed the second car will be sold out in short order.

Badges were being printed today with the words "Rush County" on them. Every Republican who goes will be provided with one of these badges. In addition, a big banner is being printed. It will be carried in a parade at the head of the Rush county delegation.

According to word the county committee has from the state central committee, it is desired that every county delegation stay together in the parade. The state committee expects every county in the state to be represented in the parade, which will form in front of the Marion club in Meridian street, Indianapolis, at seven o'clock Thursday evening, an hour before the meeting begins at Tomlinson hall.

The chief address will be made by Senator Borah of Idaho and the Republican senatorial nominee, Hugh
Th. Miller, will also speak.

MOON THEORY IS DISPROVEN

Department of Agriculture Hands
One to Old Fashioned Farmer
Regarding Planting

HAS NO EFFECT ON WEATHER

Federal Bounty System Urged as Result of Recent Conference on Sheep and Wool

(By United Press.)

Washington, Sept. 16.—The old-fashioned farmer who governs his planting by the movements of the moon will receive a jolt from the bulletin just issued by the Department of Agriculture declaring that neither the moon nor the planets have the slightest effect on weather conditions and therefore cannot have any effect on planting.

"Plant your corn in the full of the moon"—a rule regarded as little short of sacred in many rural communities is entirely disproven, according to the department's bulletin.

"All weather changes depend on temperature differences," the bulletin says. "The temperature, as we know, constitutes of itself a most important weather factor. Another and equally important weather factor is rainfall. But to obtain rain it is necessary first to evaporate water from the surface of the earth, and this, as everyone knows, requires heat."

Still another important weather factor is the direction and force of the wind and this, too, requires heat, for the winds will not blow unless the temperature is different at one place from what it is at another any more than the air will draw up a chimney where there is no fire in it.

"Since, then, the heating of the earth and its atmosphere to different temperatures is the real cause of the winds and of all weather changes it follows that the moon and the planets can affect the weather only so far as they supply heat."

"The amount of heat sent to the earth by all the planets and by the moon is insignificant in comparison to the amount that comes from the sun. Hence we could not expect the moon or the planets to appreciably affect the weather since they do not supply heat, the one thing that causes all our weather changes."

As a result of the sheep and wool conference held recently in Washington growers and manufacturers are urging a Federal bounty system as a means to exterminate predatory animals on Western ranges, the enactment of state laws to control dogs in farm states, the standardization of wool by the Department of Agriculture, the establishment of government sheep breeding farms to determine the breeds best adapted to various conditions, and the creations of colleges for the promotion of more scientific methods in wool production.

In the report addressed to the Secretary of Agriculture by a committee appointed for the purpose, it

Human Interest War Pictures That Quickly Arouse American Pity.

These are human interest pictures of the war in Europe. One shows a wounded Scotch soldier being carried by comrades. He is on his way home. The other picture shows Serbian refugees resting in a forced march from Belgrade. Routed from their homes by the invading Austrians, these poor people, of all ages, fled in fear—homeless, helpless, hopeless—the innocent victims of war's grim tragedy.

is pointed out that the sheep industry of the United States is now valued at approximately $230,000,000, but that unfavorable conditions are causing the supply of sheep to decrease rapidly.

The conference was called by Secretary Houston in order to consider the problems presented by this situation.

The Agriculture Department's landscape gardener has just issued a statement advising flower growers to prune their climbing roses now for the next season. Shoots should be pruned, he says, so as to throw the growth of the plant into the new wood that bore no flowers this year for this is the part of the plant that will bear next year.

When a trellis is low—six or eight feet high—it is a good plan, he says, to cut off the shoots that have borne flowers this year clear to the ground. Most people, in following this advice, may think they are ruining their bushes to cut them back so severely, but the young shoots that have started about the roots will surprise them by springing up with wonderful rapidity.

GENERAL UNREST NOTED IN BERLIN

Several Newspapers Protest Today
Against Meagreness of Official War, Urging Frankness.

PEOPLE ENTITLED TO TRUTH

(By United Press.)

The Hague, Sept. 16.—Advices from Berlin this afternoon indicate a condition of general unrest there. Several newspapers protested today against the meagreness of official news. One Socialist paper declares that the government must be more frank with the people if it would have uninterrupted support. It refers to an attempt to make an Austrian victory out of defeat, saying it was "an evident attempt to hoodwink the German people."

"They are entitled to the truth," the paper says.

Vancouver's population is estimated by the new 1914 city directory at 207,383. Consul-General Mansfield compares this with 150,000 in 1912, 40,000 in 1904, and 25,000 in 1902.

PRICE OF WHEAT IS OFF AGAIN

Many Farmers Are Distressed Because They Didn't Sell When Local Market Was $1.10.

DROP QUICKER THAN RISE

Many farmers who held on to their wheat even when it was selling as high as $1.10 a bushel on the local market are sorely distressed now that the market has fallen off twelve cents. It is apparent that the price wheat maintained for a week was unnatural and the balloon had to burst some time.

The drop in wheat prices was even more sudden than the rise. Thursday, September 3 the grain reached its highest price here when it went to $1.10. This price held steady for over a week. Last Saturday the local market dropped from $1.10 to $1.04. Monday it went off six cents more and is now stationary there.

Within the past few weeks the price of wheat here, as elsewhere, has broken the record of years. First the price of a dollar per bushel caused a lot of farmers to unload, thinking that it would be the high water mark. This caused the grain to go back a little. Then it went back to a dollar and then to a dollar ten, the latter rise all within three days. Even then a number of farmers held on to their crop, hoping to be able to market it as high as $1.25. However, it is thought that many of these farmers will begin to sell now. Of course the market may go up again, but it seems the opinion of local buyers now that the price should remain about as it is for some time to come.

ECHOES FROM CIRCLEVILLE

Circleville Happenings Always Interest Our Readers.

After reading of so many people in our town who have been cured by Doan's Kidney Pills, the question naturally arises: "Is this medicine equally successful in our neighboring towns?" The generous statement of this Circleville resident leaves no room for doubt on this point.

Hiram Whalen, R. R. No. 1, Circleville, Rushville, Ind., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are a fine remedy and we always keep them in the house. I had pains in my back that made it hard for me to straighten after stooping and my kidneys caused me a great deal of trouble. Doan's Kidney Pills stopped the pains and aches and regulated the kidney action."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Whalen had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y. (Advertisement.)

BEGINS DRAFTING "WAR TAX" BILL

Chairman Underwood Goes to Work to Frame Measure Which Will be Introduced Saturday.

WILL BE PASSED NEXT WEEK

(By United Press.)

Washington, Sept. 16.—Chairman Underwood of the house ways and means committee today began drafting the internal revenue "war tax" bill authorized by the Democratic caucus to comprise a stamp tax similar to that of Spanish-American war times and imports on beer, wines and tobacco to raise the $105,000,000 annual revenue needed.

Introduction of the bill Saturday is planned by Underwood. It will probably be favorably reported Monday and passed, under a special rule severely limiting debate and offering of amendments, by the end of the week. Bitter and prolonged Republican opposition by both the house and senate seemed certain today.

FLOOD IS CAUSE OF DAMAGE SUIT

Connersville Grocer Wants Return From Electric Company in Suit Being Heard Here.

ALLEGES CANAL WAS CAUSE

Amount is Small But on Outcome Depends Several Other Cases—Grand Jury Meets Tuesday.

A damage suit growing out of the flood of March 1913, started this morning in the circuit court before Judge Megee and a jury. It is the case of Peter Snyder against the Hydro-Electric Light and Power company of Connersville sent to the local court on a change of venue from Fayette county.

The demand is something like $300 and is for a loss of merchandise caused by the flood in 1913. The plaintiff owns a grocery store in Western avenue, Connersville, and at the time had a large amount of stock stored in his cellar. The Hydro-Electric company owns and controls the canal going through the city of Connersville. It is alleged that the company was responsible for the poor drainage and because of this the canal overflowed and damaged his stock of goods.

While the demand is not great the case is important because several other suits of a similar nature are pending on the outcome, it is stated. It is expected to determine whether or not the electric company was responsible, because of its ownership of the canal, for the water overflowing into the land adjoining. The defense maintains that the flood of 1913 was unprecedented and the laws of nature are expected to play a large part in the suit.

The defense maintains that the Hydro-Electric company could not be responsible for the large amount of rain falling during those days of 1913 and no matter what kind of a drain was maintained by the canal it would have been impossible to carry off all the water. Snyder also demands damages to his property because it is alleged that the flood left the foundation in a bad shape.

The loss to the goods stored in the cellar according to the complaint amounted to $153.65. The outcome of the case will be watched with interest. The opening statements and first evidence was heard this morning. The first witness was the county surveyor, who testified to the location of the Snyder store in reference to the canal. It is expected that the case will not go to the jury before tomorrow some time.

The jury trying the case is composed of the following: W. A. Posey, John S. Miller, F. D. Kirkpatrick, Jesse W. Trowbridge, Henry W. Moore, Orville Biggs, Jesse Logan, Tom Cline, Jehu Smith, Charles Miles, E. A. Farthing and George Spillman.

The account suit of John E. Robbins against Monte Walker and Thos. F. Thomas for $450 was dismissed on motion of the plaintiff. The case was sent to this county on a change of venue from Shelby county.

Prosecutor Smith plans to call the grand jury in session for next Tuesday. This will be the first meeting of the present term of court.

The Loyal Order of Moose will meet tonight in the Modern Woodmen hall.

Amusements

The Gem will show a two part Bison drama "Prowlers of the Wild" for the first picture tonight. Herbert Rawlinson and Anna Little are featured. It is said to be a thrilling story of circus life and shows some exciting scenes in trapping wild animals in Africa. The other is a Joker comedy entitled "Love, Roses and Trousers." Max Ascher is featured. Tomorrow night the great picture "The Great Universal Mystery," with J. Warren Kerrigan, Florence Lawrence and King Baggot will be shown.

The Princess will offer the first episode of "The Million Dollar Mystery" for the first picture tonight. It is entitled "The Airship in the Night." It is said to be the greatest picture ever conceived and involves love, romance and adventure. The first episode will reveal the secret sessions of the plotters, the uncanny disappearance of the million dollars and the remarkable escape of the millionaire Hargrave. $10,000 is offered for the best solution of mystery. The story is unfinished and the last two reels will be made from the prize story. The other picture is a comedy "A Night With a Million." Francis Bushman is featured.

"PROWLERS OF THE WILD"

Two Part Bison animal picture

At the opening of this picture, the spectator finds himself under a circus tent. A trapeze performer is attempting a dare-devil stunt; something goes wrong; there is a quivering suspense for a moment, then the performer plunges headlong. He is seriously hurt and will never perform again. From here we are shifted to the wilds of Africa, and a romance of love, hatred and crime develops. One of the striking scenes of this picture is the trapping of wild animals, which makes it very interesting and instructive for the spectator.

REPUBLICAN IN ERROR.

The Daily Republican was in error yesterday in stating that the Rushville store of the Story & Clark Piano company had moved out of the city over night. Instead the pianos in the room formerly occupied by the company were moved across the street some time Monday evening to an obscure room off the street in the Windsor hotel. It was said yesterday that the store had moved out and confirmation was found in the fact that the local manager left yesterday morning on the southbound Big Four train.

Things Legislature Did.

The Democratic state central committee will, in a few days have before the voters of the state a pamphlet, printed as the result of alarm felt because of the protest against Democratic extravagances. Advises from Indianapolis say that on the front page of the pamphlet is a complaint that it is unfair for the Republicans to attack the acts of the last legislature.

It is unfair to the voters of Indiana to call their attention to the fact that the last legislature made laws out of bills that were never passed? It is unfair to call attention to the fact that the last legislature raised the tax levy and that state officials are plunging the state into debt by their mad administration?

Appended here is a list of a few of the things the last legislature did which are not included in the pamphlet about to be distributed.

The term of office of county superintendents was extended from June 15, 1915 to August 16, 1917, more than two years.

The township assessors' salary increase bill was killed in the House on March 7, 1913 (Page 1981 House Journal.) However, on March 15, 1913 Governor Ralston approved this bill and it became a law of the state of Indiana.

Senate bill 423 to increase the salary of the recorder of Lake County was written into the statute books of Indiana after it had been killed by the House.

Senate bill 205 was amended by the House in order to prevent what it was feared might be a monopoly on a certain kind of tail lights and name plates for automobiles. The Senate, according to the records, accepted the House amendment, but the law as it appears in the official statutes contains the objectionable amendment that was cut out by both the House and Senate.

The House Journal (page 2209) shows that Charles Washington, colored servant of Thomas Taggart, was paid $4.50 to $10 a day for his 45 days service. The record of this page reads:

Paid out on resolutions: Charles Washington, porter, for services, warrants Nos. 437, 438, 931, 1534, $375.00 Charles Washington, porter, for services, Warrant No. 1777, $75. Governor Ralston, in a public statement says that this record, for which the taxpayers of Indiana paid $1450, to Speaker Cook and his assistants to keep the record accurate, is not correct.

The House Journal (page 1811) shows that $75. was paid to Alonzo Hatwood, a one armed negro boot-black. He probably would have gotten more if he had had two arms.

The record shows that there were 63 doorkeepers on the House payroll. There are only three doors to the House Chamber. Page 2210 of the House Journal shows that the principal doorkeeper and his assistants drew $9,196. of the taxpayers money during the 61 days of the session.

The Legislature of 1913 cost $162,000.

The Legislature of 1907, the last Republican Legislature cost but $130,000. There were the same number of members in both General As-

Every insanitary school house is a blot upon the intelligence and civilization of Indiana. Let us away with such blots. It is not economy, it is not good business to permit the slightest obstruction to exist in the upward pathway of our school children. Think of it! We actually force disease with its inefficiency into school children when we have insanitary school houses. "O Shaw" says mental defective, "hundreds and thousands of our children come through the so-called insanitary school house to high and good citizenship." True, and hundreds and thousands of soldiers come out of fierce battles unscathed, but that fact does not prove that battles are without dangers.

There may be, probably are, a few feeble-minded ginks who will say—"I went to one of them old so-called insanitary school houses, I was never medically inspected when I was a child and I'm here yet. What was good enough for me is good enough for my children."

This kind of argument proceeds out of ignorance and conceit. It needs no reply.

Now, in the name of common sense in the name of good business, in the name of humanity and christianity, let us—"bring up the child in the way he should go."

"Youth is the time to serve the Lord." Let us environ our children so they may serve the Lord. Here is the Indiana Child's Creed offered by the State Board of Health. Read it carefully. You will certainly approve of it. It directs the only way through which normal God fearing men and women may be secured to the state.

Let Indiana actually follow and enforce this creed, and she will, in a few generations, be the greatest and strongest people in the world. She will be able to whip the war making nations with righteous example and gentle peace.

"Every child has the inalienable right to be born free from disease, free from deformity and with pure blood in its veins and arteries.

"Every child has the inalienable right to be loved; to have its individuality respected; to be trained wisely in mind, body and soul; to be protected from disease, from evil influences and evil persons; and to have a fair chance in life. In a word, to be brought up in the fear and admonition of the Lord."

"That state is delinquent which does not ceaselessly strive to secure these inalienable rights to its children."

semblys and each lasted 61 days, the constitutional limit.

The 1913 Legislature, controlled by the Fairbanks-Taggart organization, cost $532 more each day than did the last Republican Legislature.

The Jennings county courthouse bill which had for its object the removal of the Jennings county courthouse from Vernon to North Vernon was one of the measures juggled through the last legislature. A brief was presented to the Governor setting forth the irregularities and accompanied by documents to show how the roll call was juggled when the bill was passed in the house. Several months after the Legislature closed the Governor was asked about this brief and said he had forgotten what it contained. But the bill became a law with the Governor's approval. It was not a measure of state wide interest but it vitally interested the tax payers of Jennings county.

Every bill passed by the Legislature must have a title. After the bill has been passed, the house or the senate as the case may be, must by separate vote adopt the title of the bill. House Bill 120 was signed by the Governor and became a law without a title. House Bill 120 concerned the prevention and spread of hog cholera. It was a bill of interest to all farmers.

The last Legislature was a salary grabbing legislature. It increased salaries in Indiana to the amount of $61,070 a year. This includes the additional pay given to those who hold fat jobs in the state house and also the additional pay voted to judges and other officials all over the state. This does not include the $67,000 paid the machines' wards in the Legislature not the $32,000 in increased salaries in Indianapolis nor the greatly increased appropriations for institutions, boards, commissions, etc.

Sixth District Republican Candidates Political History Shows Some Achievements

WENT ALONE AGAINST BOSSES

Saved Whole Delegation of Pennsylvania for Roosevelt in 1904.
He Lead the Way

Newcastle, Ind., Sept. 16.—The following leaf from the political history of P. J. Lynch of this city, Republican candidate for congress from the 6th Indiana District, will show what manner of man it is that is leading the Republican fight in the old burnt district. That Lynch is a man of convictions and is stout hearted enough to carry them through is indicated by this record of his experience as a member of the Pennsylvania delegation to the Republican National Convention in 1904. Having been elected as a Roosevelt delegate, Lynch had the courage, when every other man in the delegation was against him, to stand in his place and insist that his vote be counted for Theodore Roosevelt.

Most everyone who follows politics will remember that in 1903 and 1904 the great "Quay Machine" of Pennsylvania was subject to much criticism for the uncertain attitude it adopted towards the nominee of the 1904 Convention—Theodore Roosevelt. Pennsylvania was at that time "unpledged to any candidate" and was cleverly holding aloof from the Roosevelt drift which swept the country at the time. Several counties in Pennsylvania had openly expressed themselves for Roosevelt but the Quay Machine suppressed their delegates and when the delegation met at Chicago and went into caucus the Senior Senator from Pennsylvania was to be given the right to "cast Pennsylvania's vote for the most desirable nominee for the Presidency". So complete was the work of the leaders of the machine that the Pennsylvania delegation was supposed to be "delivered," in exchange for a cabinet place for that state. A Cannon boom was started at Chicago and the leaders of the Pennsylvania delegation encouraged it. Monday night of the convention week, the Cannon boom developed remarkable strength and it was thought that night that Cannon would be launched in opposition to Roosevelt who was then serving out the term of McKinley. About midnight the Pennsylvania delegation was called in caucus to discuss the situation. A few Roosevelt men from Pennsylvania made feeble protest but were gradually won over to the delivery plan—but there was one young man from Pennsylvania—from Chester county who upset the machine plan. That man was Patrick J. Lynck of Chester county, Pa.

Governor Pennypacker of Pennsylvania was in the chair at the caucus and a motion was made and seconded that "the Senior Senator cast the solid vote of the Pennsylvania for whoever in his judgement should appear to be the most desirable nominee." The Governor of Pa. was about to put the motion when a boyish looking young man, a clean cut, strong voiced athletic chap rose in his place and said: "My name is Patrick J. Lynch. I represent a sovereign constituency Chester county, Pa. My county by an overwhelming vote instructed me to vote first, last and all the time for Theodore Roosevelt. I will obey the instructions of my county and I dare you to deliver my vote. I never proved false to the instructions of my people and I deny your right to deliver me. Count me out, Mr. Chairman, and take it that the delegate from Chester county is first, last and all the time for Roosevelt." Never was there such surprise, anger astonishment, in the Pennsylvania delegation. Some of the Philadelphia delegation rose in their places and cried "Throw him out," "Choke off that fellow," "Kill him," but Lynch stood there smiling and determined. "There is not anyone man in this delegation able to throw me out," he said, "Let the man who wants the job come forward." When I pledge myself to do something I will do it, regardless of what may happen to me."

The Chairman of the delegation pounced in vain for order and pandemonium reigned for half an hour. The delegation's caucus broke up long after midnight and the news got to the papers that "Pennsylvania did nothing" but later the Lynch story got out. Pennsylvania of course ultimately voted solid for Roosevelt. "Pat" Lynch now of Newcastle, was the first man who ever gave the Quay machine a serious jolt in Pennsylvania, and the first man to open the way for a revolt from machine methods of "delivery" in that state. The Sixth district needs for Congress a man of the positiveness, ability and determination such as that possessed by Mr. Lynch.

NEW MAN TAKES CHARGE AT I.U.

Extension Department of State University Will be Under Direction of J. J. Pettijohn

FORMERLY OF NORTH DAKOTA

This Division is Now Considered One of Most Important—Is Now Two Years' Old

(By United Press.)

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 16.—With the coming of J. J. Pettijohn from the University of North Dakota, this department of the state institution—the one that comes most intimately in contact with the people of the state—will start the third year of its existence on a larger and better basis. Although only two years old, this department is now one of the most important factors in the work of the university as the servant of the state. The extension division was at first modeled on the similar work being carried on at University of Wisconsin but it has grown so rapidly that within a few years it is expected to rival the work being done in the Badger state.

The work of the division for the past two years has been under the general direction of the dean of the College of Liberal Arts, although there have been separate subdivisions under different departments of the university such as correspondence-study; lectures, debating, and public discussion; and general information and welfare work. With the coming of the Professor Pettijohn all subdivisions will be under one head.

In the report of the past year's work just made public, it is shown that in the correspondence courses a total of 408 persons have been enrolled and of this number 215 are still enrolled. The courses offered included work in German, French, Latin, English, mathematics, political science, history, and economics. English has proven the most popular course, the enrollment being 149 in that course.

Other work along the same line was a series of lectures by members of the faculty to the teachers of the Indianapolis schools. For attendance at these lectures as well as for work done in the Correspondence Courses University credit is given.

The report shows that approximately 39,339 people in the state of Indiana have listened to lectures by members of the University faculty during the past year. These lectures numbering 299, have been delivered in 70 counties and 200 cities of the state.

One of the most notable features of the work of the extension division during the past year was the holding of three conferences. The tax conference held last February resulted in the formation of the Indiana Tax association which now has permanent headquarters in Indianapolis and is making a study of the state tax system. The conference on educational measurements held early in June was attended by 135 superintendents and educators from over the state. Noted speakers were present and keen interest was manifest in the conference early in June to discuss the question. "Shall Indiana hold a Constitutional Convention?"

Guy Miller and family have moved from New Salem to Arlington for permanent residence.

The Republicans have opened headquarters over the Callaghan store in East Second street.

The Ladies Musicals will have a called meeting of all active members at the home of Mrs. Frank Wolcott Friday evening at seven-thirty o'clock. Important business is to come before the meeting and a large attendance is desired.

Vise a Ruined Shell After Fire; Germans Resting Near Louvain.

Photos copyright, 1914, by American Press Association.

These war pictures were taken in Belgium while the Germans were fighting their way through to France. One of them shows a main street in Vise after the Germans had passed through and the town had been set on fire. Most of the stone and brick buildings were gutted. The other picture shows German infantry resting while at a damaged farmhouse near Louvain while on the march.

FIVE VETERANS AT NEBRASKA

Prospects for Winner Are Not so Bad and Several More May Report to Coach Stiehm

THE SCHEDULE IS ANNOUNCED

Cornhuskers Expect Real Battle When They Face Michigan Aggies on October 24.

(By United Press.)

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 16.—Five, and perhaps seven veterans of the undefeated University of Nebraska eleven of 1913, will answer the first practice call on Sept. 20, and Coach Stiehm has an excellent string of last year's freshmen from which to pick the balance of his eleven.

Captain Halligan, a star tackle; Cameron, another tackle; Rutherford, half back; Howard, full back and Abbott, guard, are the men upon whom Stiehm is certain he can rely. Ballis, a 1913 tackle, and Lastin, an end, are expected to return to school this year.

Doyle, a half back; Caley and Amack, ends; Corey and Harris, tackles, and Shields, a guard, are the most promising of the new men. Stiehm's hardest task will be to develop a speedy backfield. The Cornhuskers' schedule this year is a disappointment to Nebraska rooters who hoped to see Nebraska extend the circle of her gridiron activities. The University of Iowa is the only one of the western conference schools on the list. The athletic authorities were unable to agree with the University of Minnesota on dates for this year and the Minnesota contest, looked forward to as a feature of the Nebraska program, was shelved. While the dickering with the Gophers was on, the Cornhuskers lost an opportunity to grasp the only vacant date on Notre Dame's schedule, another keen disappointment.

The Michigan Aggies, another team that proved a 1913 surprise, by trimming western conference schools, will come to Lincoln Oct. 24 for what is expected to be the stiffest battle on the Cornhuskers' schedule. The schedule complete follows:

Oct. 3—Washburn at Lincoln.
Oct. 10—South Dakota at Lincoln.
Oct. 17—Kansas Aggies at Manhattan, Kan.
Oct. 24—Michigan Aggies at Lincoln.

MAT DAWSON IS INJURED

Former Rushville Man Hurt Removing Shell From Rifle.

Word was received here this morning that G. M. (Mat) Dawson, of Piqua, Ohio, formerly of this city, had been seriously injured when a shell he was attempting to take out of an old Springfield army rifle exploded. Mr. Dawson's left hand was badly lacerated and his face cut. It was at first thought that he would lose his eye sight but it is now believed that this can be saved. Mr. Dawson is well known here having resided in this city until three years ago when he moved to Piqua.

ARE IN ABOUT SAME POSITION

Location of German Army Now Almost Identical With That When March on Paris Began

GROUND GAINED QUICKLY LOST

If Allies Can Pierce the Line at Rethel on the Aisne River, German Centre Will be Snapped

(By United Press.)
New York, Sept. 16.—Yesterday's figure six representing the battle line of the retreating Germans has become narrower at the bowl and the hook about Verdun is loosening. The stem of the six, which yesterday was drawn very much to the left is now assuming a more perpendicular position.

If the allies can bend the six into a wholly erect figure the Germans will be in the position they occupied originally just as the allies lines about Namur and in the Ardennes gave way and the retreat on Paris began.

The Germans apparently are attempting to re-organize their forces to prevent the straightening of the six, on the hills to the Northeast of the fortified line La Fare-Leon-Rheim now uniquely famous for its danger to a defensive army. The Aisne river at Rethel and the Vouziers is the they to this position, for its guards the roads of retreat to Luxemburg and the Ardennes. If the allies can pierce the line at this point, the German centre's communications will be snapped and the center will be thrown in confusion on the already harassed right. The change of the crown prince's headquarters to Montfaucon, which is on a line with Rethel and Vouziers, suggests the allies are preparing in their district for their principal attack if the Germans decide to make another stand in France.

The Ardennes, with its hills forests and numerous streams, is of the utmost value to the Germans as a safe line of retreat. If the allies can block the retirement there, nothing except Napoleonic genius can prevent a stupendous German disaster. For this reason, German resistance along the Aisne cannot afford to take the chances that were legitimate for the allies in the battle of the Marne.

Paris on one side and the Frontier fortification line of Epinal-Belfort on the other, were ready as strong pivoting points if the Germans had broken the Marne line. But none such exists for the Germans along the Aisne. Therefore the invaders cannot wait long on indecisive results. If their line goes, the Ardennes roads are blocked, annihilation becomes imminent. For this reason the battle of the Aisne if such battle there be, probably will not compare with the Marne in duration and intensity.

The announcement of General Sukheminoff, Russian war minister that there will be no change in Prussia's chief objective of reaching Berlin as soon as possible, has great importance. It has been pointed out in this column that any effort to prolong operations in Austro-Hungary beyond the strategic requirements of the march to Berlin will be only to prolong the war.

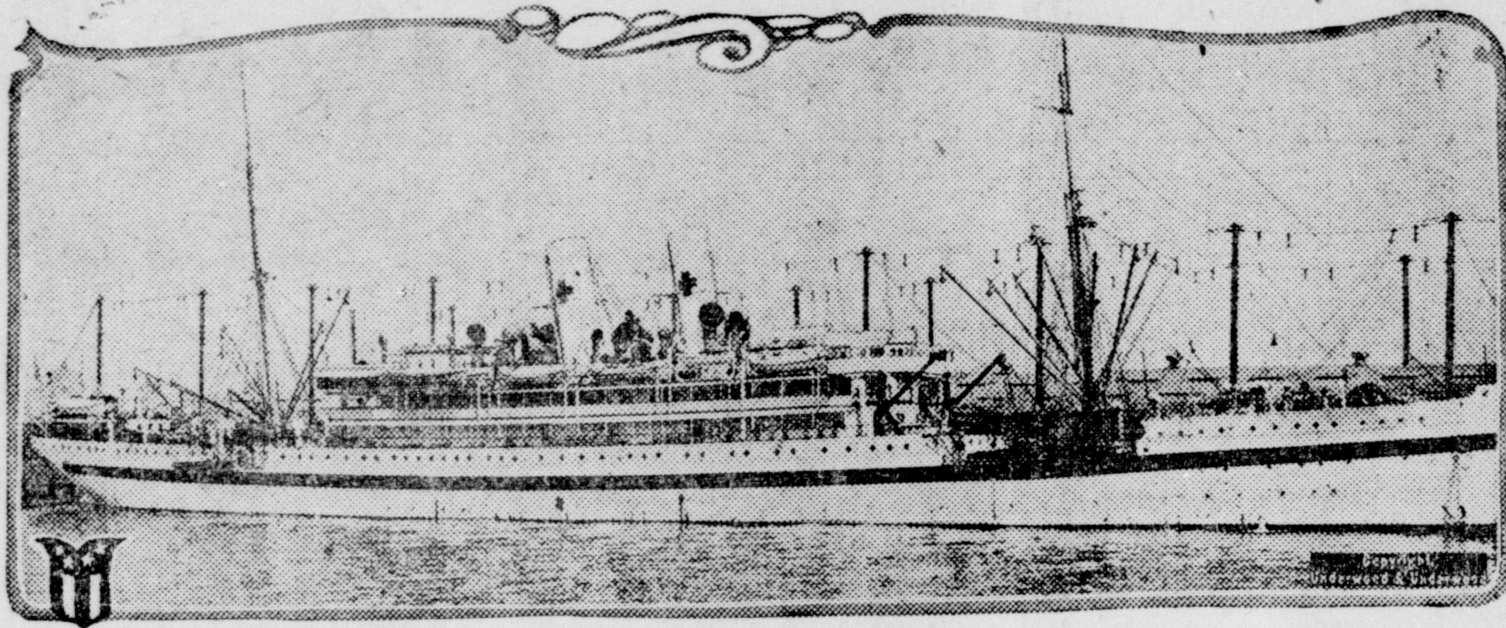

There has been evidence that, carried away by the Galician victories and not relishing the quality of German resistance in east Prussia, Russians have been fascinated by temptation of comparatively easy marches on Vienna and Budapest. The Petrograd government through General Sukheminoff's announcement shows that wiser opinions have prevailed and there are to be no interruptions of the only Russian strategy that can hasten the end of the war.

SAILING OF THE RED CROSS DELAYED

This is the steamer Red Cross, formerly the Hamburg, whose sailing from New York with American Red Cross nurses and surgeons was delayed by protests of the English and French consuls because some of the crew were Germans.

Types of English Nurses Now on Duty In the Great European War.

Photos copyright, 1914, by American Press Association.

The year that marks the greatest war in history also marks the fiftieth anniversary of the Red Cross. For just fifty years Red Cross nurses have been widely recognized in time of war and have administered to the wounded and dying. In 1864, when the civil war in this country was drawing to a close, a convention of nations met at Geneva and published and ratified the first code governing the operation of the Red Cross. Since then there have been many revisions and modifications, all tending to extend the immunity of the nurses in wartime. Under the final revision of 1906 the Red Cross was recognized by thirty-five countries, and it is now operating in Europe under that revision. The upper picture shows regular Red Cross nurses of England. The other shows the Yorkshire yeomanry of nurses, a special corps who wear militant uniforms and are drilled in military tactics.

New Instruments of War Make It Worse, with Barbarian Refinement

BY WILLIAM G. SHEPHERD

(By U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Antwerp, Sept. 3.—(by mail to New York)—Before this war, experts used to say perfection of terrible instruments of killing would only tend to make war impossible. It doesn't do that, though. I watched the Zeppelin dropping bombs upon Antwerp last night and such perfection only makes war more terrible with a refinement of barbarism. As I saw the Zeppelin depart it seemed that the best argument against war was that it turned men into such merciless demons as these Zeppelin murderers.

The wildest flights of imagination couldn't approach what happened in Antwerp twelve hours ago. Early in the evening a Belgium captain took me the rounds of his company stationed in the centre of the city. His men are divided into small squads in a dozen streets. They were sitting on the sidewalks with their backs against the building walls, drinking hot coffee which had been brought to them in an automobile. It seemed that his men were pretty well spread out in case of an attack by the Germans, but the captain said there were 30,000 soldiers scattered over the city in the same way. Later the reason was apparent. Not until one o'clock in the morning did the red harvest moon begin to sink. It left the streets in pitch darkness. The city was so tranquil and still that the crackle of the dry autumn leaves which had fallen from the elms in the public square seemed noise. It was chilly, too, and the soldiers on the sidewalks were wrapped up in their big overcoats and too drowsy or too comfortable to challenge.

An hour and a half later I was awakened by soldiers talking excitedly in the street beneath my window. But above the sound of their voices was another noise, a terrific whirring, high in the sky. I jumped from bed, rushed to the window and looked upwards. There was a terrific explosion, far away, a deep booming roar. A moment later a spark came whirling and circling through the air like a shooting star gone mad. It sank into the skyline of roofs and another explosion boomed out.

And then up against the stars I saw the Zeppelin perhaps a mile high and out over the outskirts of the towns. There's a sickening feeling of utter helplessness in witnessing such a sight and mingling with this feeling there is a fascination in the thought that such a thing is not superhuman; that up there in the sky men, human beings, working, carrying out orders, watching maps of the city, tracing the streets, pulling levers, adjusting greasy machinery, turning steering wheels and lighting fuses of bombs that are intended to kill men, women and children.

I remembered what a great Belgian statesman had said only that afternoon: "You know only two Christmases ago, Emperor William of Germany, and King Albert of Belgium spent part of the holiday season together. King Albert's baby daughter loved the emperor so much because he played with her, that she cried to get onto his lap and was inconsolable when his visit was ended. How he can order his Zeppelins, now to drop bombs on the house where this little girl and her brother and sisters and father and mother are sleeping. I can't understand."

Another spark fell and there was a third explosion. Then a new sound filled the air. It began far away. It was the rattle of rifles, thousands of them. The firing grew nearer and louder. There were sharp orders. Under my window the soldiers began to shoot, the flashes lighting my room. They held their rifles straight upward. The sound grew louder and louder. Within a minute the din was indescribable. Thirty thousand soldiers were shooting, each as fast as he could fire with his magazine rifle. The orders were not to try to hit the Zeppelin unless it was overhead. Every man's duty was to shoot straight up. They were filling the air with steel. They were putting up a fence of metal a mile high around the city and palace. They filled the air with death to anything that entered the zone above Antwerp. The big guns in the forts around the city began to boom. Aeroplane machine guns mounted on automobiles dashed about the streets, adding their burring, rattling sound to the din. It was a million Fourths of July rolled into one.

In the midst of it all there were eight more of the big base booms, the voice of the Zeppelin bombs in quick succession. To the last in the midst of the bullets and superhuman confusion, the supermen in the Zeppelin had tried to stick to the job. Two of the eight bombs fell within 20 and 30 meters of the Red Cross hospitals; the other six beat a gargantuan tattoo on the field around the wireless station, which the air-men were evidently trying to destroy. The holes in the earth about the station were each the size and shape of a cistern. Ten minutes of firing had made the Antwerp sky unhealthy. As the batch of bombs went over the sides of the ear the balloons arose and sped away from the city. The firing died out slowly. Half an hour later the Zeppelin was reported at a point twelve miles away. Two children, three women and five men had been injured—though none seriously—and three houses destroyed. Nearly all of the terrified families of the city had taken refuge in the cellars for a week before the same Zeppelin had bombarded the town and killed twelve persons. The bullets fired by the soldiers, came falling from the sky, but aside from breaking skylights, they caused no injury. Folks going to work this morning picked them up for souvenirs.

NOTICE

FIRST BOMB HIT WIDOW'S HOUSE

Dame Fouchard Describes Experiences in Antwerp When Germans Make an Air Attack.

WAS AIMED AT THE PALACE

Even Though it Struck Her Home, Simple Belgian Woman and Grandchildren Were Unharmed.

(By United Press.)

Antwerp, Aug. 31 (By Mail to New York) —You can go and see Dame Fouchard if you want to. She is 84 years old and nothing very big had happened to her in all her life, until the other morning while she was sleeping.

Now after all these 84 years of quiet living, she's taken around to the palace and carried before gentlemanly commissioners and statesmen and treated just exactly as she should be treated under the circumstances. Dame Fouchard is quite well and whole, though its a wonder; so are her grandchildren, Etienne, a boy of 12, and Genevieve, 17. The point of it all is that Dame Fouchard's house was struck by the first bomb that was ever dropped in warfare from the sky. Such distinction is very fine—if you come out whole as Dame Fouchard and the children did.

If you ask Dame Fouchard what she thinks of the success of aeroplanes or dirigibles in warfare she says:

"Well, they are very noisy but I don't think they'll kill many people. I never heard such a noise in my life as when our roof blew off, but the bomb seemed to explode upward. I wonder that it didn't blow back and hit the balloon."

It happened on the night of August 24, or rather at 1 o'clock in the morning of the next day. Dame Fouchard and the children have rooms on the second floor of a narrow three-story building, right in the centre of town. Half a block is Antwerp's Wall street and stock exchange. One block in another direction is the palace of King Albert.

It was shortly after midnight when the late bedgoers in Antwerp first heard the noise in the sky; they rushed into the streets to look up. Every star was in its place as usual; that is, at first. Then some stars began to blink, oddly one after another, long slow blinks far apart. Finally overhead, across the "milky way" as the Antwerp copper told me, a great black form slipped through the day, not silently but making a whirr like a giant taxicab. Soon it was over the city. Only a few saw the first bomb drop. What they really saw was the spark of the fuse. Way up there in the sky, a brawny German—maybe two or three of them—lifted a great shrapnel shell over the side of the car and let it drop down, down onto the city.

Tens of thousands of little children who had said their prayers that night, thousands of mothers who had heard the prayers and tucked the children away with good-night kisses, were sleeping down there, helpless harmless, faultless, I wonder if it is possible that the men in the sky, with the Place that the children pray to above them, ever thought of those Antwerp "Now I lay me's" as they lifted their bombs place and let them go.

One bomb was for the palace where the king and queen were sleeping. It hit within a block of the building, which is pretty good marksmanship when you're dropping things nearly a mile. The airmen must have planned out by maps and the lighted streets below just what roof-covered the king and queen. And their bomb hit the roof where Dame Fouchard slept.

The explosion aroused the city. Four more followed in different parts of town in quick succession. Evidently the Zeppelin was circling over the town. Then it went away through the night, marking its pathway by its noise and its shadow against the stars.

Patrol wagons and morgue wagons and soldiers all dashed hither and thither. Telephone calls came into the police station from the waterfront and from the district where Dame Fouchard's house stood. The police found Dame Fouchard and the children covered with plaster and broken boards with nothing much but the sky above them, and the front wall of the building lying in the street. How they escaped is inexplicable. The Belgians told me that ten persons were killed in four different sections of town that night, one little child and two women were among them. The rest are water front workmen.

Dame Fouchard who is 84 and knows many things, told me that maybe it was because they hadn't said their "Now I lay me's" as she and Etienne and Genevieve had done.

Now there are no more lights at night in the streets of Antwerp and even the curtains of lighted houses must be drawn.

WANTS NO "WHITE LIES" AT FUNERAL.

(By United Press.)

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 16.—Asserting that he does not want any "white lies" told at his funeral and that he wanted no weeping or moaning "when he put out to sea," the Rev. G. L. Morley, Minneapolis evangelist, known from coast to coast as "Go Lightly" Morley, is today preparing to "can" his funeral oration.

He will have a phonographic record made of one of his favorite speeches. Then he will incorporate in his will a request that this be played at his funeral. He is in perfect health now.

FLOORCOVERINGS AND DRAPERIES THIS FALL

Every season sees a more distinctive assemblage of floorcoverings in our carpet department. With a great degree of pride and satisfaction we present 1914's autumn showing, embracing the artist's best designs and patterns. Do you enjoy choosing from a large stock—as large as is carried in cities many times the size of Rushville—and at the same time receive the most careful attention, and the benefit of your home-merchants' responsibility?

We cordially invite your inspection of the mammoth display of rugs—every size represented. We are proud too of the axminster, velvet and tapestry carpets carried in full rolls on our floors. Then there are splendid assortments of ingrain carpets, fillings, matings and linoleums. This house stands ready at all times to convince you of the fairness of its prices, which accounts in a large degree for its steadily growing business during the past 50 years.

DISTINCTIVE DRAPERIES

Colonial Drapery Fabrics bring from the homes of a century gone an atmosphere of all that is simple, quiet, refined and artistic in home decorations. Inspired by these fine old tendencies, the designers have gone to every worthy source in their research for distinctive effects. In materials, they range from the filmiest voiles in the most delicately colored tints to the weightier fabrics—weightier in weaves, as well as in design and coloring. There are various materials readily adaptable for many useful and decorative household accessories. A large shipment of new and beautiful draperies and lace curtains has just arrived and we want you to see them.

AMBASSADORS FIND NO REST

Diplomatic Corps of Warring Nations

Continue "On Job" Over Time in Washington

REFUSE TO TALK ABOUT WAR

One of Most Interest is M. Jules J. Jusserand of France—Close to Home for Some

BY BURTON K. STAN, DISH
(Written for United Press.)

Washington, Sept. 16.—Washington is today about the only great world power where the full diplomatic corps of the warring nations are "on the job." As a fact those here practically never get a full night's rest. Wireless and cable messages from the front awaken them at all hours, night and day.

Just recently at the British Embassy Ambassador Spring Rice, said he was aroused almost every night, and he, like Lord Kitchener, almost sleep on his desk.

Some days ago the Ambassador returned to Washington from his vacation abroad and hurried to the embassy. I met him in the hall during his first work day. He was rushing about coat off, collar unbuttoned, tie untied and hair mussed, but he beamed with smiles when he told how he eluded everyone coming from London to Washington by traveling under an assumed name. To think that he escaped the "ship news reporters" in New York gave him the greatest delight.

But as soon as one talks to the ambassador about the war he becomes almost another man. Talking one day about the expeditionary force which went from England to Belgium to join the allies he said: "I have a brother-in-law and cousin in that force which has been in some bitter fighting. I haven't heard a word from them." Then he paused and his head dropped in deep thought. Finally he added: "One doesn't smile at war when it comes so close home as that."

One of the most interesting ambassadors is M. Jules J. Jusserand of France, dean of the corps in Washington. He returned to the United States on the same steamer with Ambassador Spring-Rice but when I saw him he never mentioned his trip across. He was too much concerned with the cause and effects of the war because, like Bryce, he is a great French writer, especially a critic and historian.

This is not a war between nations he said. It is a conflict between two ideas of government—between autocracy and democracy. The Alliance represents the former, the allies the latter. Whichever triumphs will dominate all government for years to come.

Then the ambassador picked up a large white sheet paper and read his latest official dispatches. And thus he expressed his system of keeping dispatches. All are naturally sent in code. On one side the paper he pastes the code messages, on the other his secretaries write the translation into French. He in turn translates the French into English for his callers.

Since the German Ambassador, Count Johann von Bernstorff, returned from Berlin, he has, for the first time since he has represented German in the United States, talked freely but with great care. I saw him one afternoon at the Embassy. He received me in his study but sat on a bench fidgeting large shell rimmed spectacles. He, too, was grave and to show how the war "comes home to home" he said he left his wife in Munich where she expected to join the German Red Cross Society corps of nurses, his son joined the Emperor's guard and all his secretaries were left "at the front."

At the Japanese Embassy Viscount Chinda, the ambassador is seldom seen. Under secretaries carry messages back and forth. One of the interesting phases of the diplomatic corps of Japan is that not a member is a graduate of an American University. Many of them, however, said Mr. H. Saite, an attache, are graduates of German universities while all of them have taken the regular college course at the Imperial University in Tokyo.

One day during the heavy fighting in Belgium one of the attaches of the German embassy was talking about the big lot the embassy bought on Massachusetts avenue where Germany expected to erect a million dollar embassy. He was asked what Germany intended to do with the lot now that war will eat into the German treasury. "Oh, we're going to use it for a burying ground," he answered.

LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES

They Are Closely Observing Public Health Conditions.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview on the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose application are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease.

According to this it would seem that a medicine for the kidneys, possessing real healing and curative properties, would be a blessing to thousands.

Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., who prepare Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the well known kidney, liver and bladder remedy, claim that judging from evidence received from druggists everywhere, who are constantly in touch with their customers, and also indisputable proof in the form of grateful testimonial letters from thousands of reliable citizens, this preparation is remarkably successful in sickness caused by kidney and bladder troubles. Every interesting statement they receive regarding Swamp-Root is investigated and no testimonial is published unless the party who sends it is reported of good character. They have on file many sworn statements of recoveries in the most distressing cases. They state that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is mild and gentle in its action and its healing influence is soon noticed in most cases.

Swamp-Root is purely an herbal compound and Dr. Kilmer & Co. advise all readers who feel in need of such a remedy to give it a trial. It is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes—30c and $1.00. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention the Rushville Daily Republican.

COUNCIL HOLDS A DULL SESSION

Street Committee Reports Property
Owners Complain About Gravel
Placed on Oiled Streets.

ALONG STREET CAR TRACKS

Property Owners in South Morgan
Street Permitted to Construct Sidewalk Under Contract.

There was very little going on at the council meeting last night and the session was one of the tamest ever held by the present administration. Councilmen Wagoner and Sexton were absent and the business was carried on by the three remaining councilmen.

The street committee reported that they had a little trouble with the Indianapolis and Cincinnati Traction company. The I. & C. raised the inside of their tracks in Seventh street with fresh gravel. The property owners there objected to the city because the benefit of the oil recently placed on the street was completely lost because of the gravel.

The property owners there are compelled to pay for the oil and the traction company, by placing gravel there, left the street in worse shape than it was before, according to the report made to the council. Councilman Seudder stated that he had asked the traction officials why they did not repair the street before the oil was placed on it and was told that they could not do it at that time. A letter has been written to President Henry of the traction company asking that the street be re-oiled and placed like it was before the gravel was placed there.

The property owners in South Morgan street were granted the right to construct a cement walk, curb and gutter from the corner of First and Morgan street to the first alley south. The work will be done under private contract. The civil engineer was instructed to give Thomas Geraghty, the contractor, the necessary grade so that he could proceed with the work.

An order was ordered drawn in favor of the Peoples National bank for sidewalk improvement bonds in Hannah street. The usual claims were allowed and adjournment was taken until next Tuesday night when some sidewalk contracts will be awarded.

REVIVAL CLOSSES.

The Rev. F. E. Davison of Brownsburg closed a very successful revival last night at the Orange Christian church. A total of forty-nine new members were taken into the church. The revival continued for two weeks and was considered one of the best ever held in Orange. The Rev. Elmer Oldham is the pastor of the church.

The Modern Woodmen will meet Thursday night. Two applications for membership are to be considered at this meeting and a large attendance is desired.

LEONA THOMAS WILL ASSIST

Rush County Violinist Will Take Part at Concert to be Given by Carl Morris.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH MONDAY

This Will be First Opportunity to Hear New York Baritone Since Summer's Study.

The people of Rush county will have the first opportunity to hear Carl Morris, of New York, her native son, after a summer's study abroad with music masters of world fame. He will sing at the Main Street Christian church next Monday evening. Every indication points to a large audience as tickets are being taken rapidly.

Miss Leona Thomas, of Arlington, the youthful violinist who made her first appearance in Rushville at the chautauqua this year, will also assist on the program. She was warmly welcomed when she played at the assembly and will undoubtedly be given a fine reception when she plays next Monday evening.

Mr. Morris sailed on the Aquitana on her maiden voyage to Europe early in the summer to study. That vessel was the largest passenger ship afloat until the war broke out but she has since been pressed into the service. Going over, Mr. Morris gave concerts for the passengers aboard, unaided by any other artists.

Mr. Morris remained in London for a time where he studied "Elijah" under Sir Charles Santley, who is the greatest living authority on this work. Mr. Morris took advantage of this opportunity in order to prepare to sing "Elijah" at the Maine fall festival in October. He will sing at Bangor, Maine, October 2 and at Portland October 6.

While in London, Mr. Morris' musical ability was recognized. He gave a musical with three of the best vocalists in London, one of which was Miss Florence Macbeth, the leading soprano with the Chicago Grand Opera company.

He proceeded to Italy from London and took some lessons in Rome of Cologni, who was DeReszke's teacher. In Naples Mr. Morris studied under Sebastian. Mr. Morris made a hurried home trip on the first vessel on which he could get passage just as soon as the war broke out.

Mrs. Agnes Monroe Howard of Muncie will be accompanist for Mr. Morris. She has accompanied Orville Harrold when he has sung in Indiana.

Miss Thomas has selected the numbers which she will play. They are as follows: "Berceuse," from Jocelyn, by Godard; "Le Cygne," from Camille, by Saint Saens; "Romance," Opus 4, by Heitsch and "Souvenir," by Franz Rolla.

Many high tributes have been paid Mr. Morris by newspapers, but none equal the words of praise from the American of Waterbury, Conn., which are as follows:

"Mr. Morris' program was varied enough to test his powers and to reveal his merits as a singer of songs. His voice is of unusual strength and range, and of beautiful quality. The upper tones are especially fine and not many baritones can lay claim to a high natural A of such brilliant and vibrant timbre. He was most enthusiastically received, and at the end, in response to encores, gave two songs which set his audience in raptures."

was known here, and the committee is highly pleased both with the quality of his work here and the rapid progress he has made with the building. When Mr. Anderson notified the committee that his contract was completed, a final settlement was effected in a very few minutes.

In an interview this morning Mr. Anderson expressed himself as being highly pleased with the treatment he has received while in Rushville, and wishes to thank those who have extended to him so many courtesies. He has signified his intention of returning here for the dedication of the building, the date of which has not yet been set. He also expressed the hope that he might again some time have a contract in Rushville.
